

Day of Mourning

April 28, 2011

Remembering the 143 B.C. workers who lost their lives to workplace injury and disease in 2010

We Invite You to Attend

On April 28, 1984, the Canadian Labour Congress initiated a national Day of Mourning ceremony. Canada was the first country to formally commemorate workers who'd been killed at work. Today, 27 years later, the Day of Mourning is observed throughout the world.

WorkSafeBC, the BC Federation of Labour, and the Business Council of British Columbia are co-hosting a public memorial to remember co-workers, friends, and family, who've lost their lives to workplace injury and disease, and to reflect on our joint commitment to creating safer workplaces in B.C.

You're invited to join our guests — family members of fatally injured workers, employers, workers, unions, associations, and government representatives — and hear presentations from the following participants:

- Honourable Stephanie Cadieux, B.C. Minister of Labour, Citizens' Services, and Open Government
- Dave Anderson, President & CEO, WorkSafeBC
- Jim Sinclair, President, BC Federation of Labour
- Ken Georgetti, President, Canadian Labour Congress
- Greg D'Avignon, President and CEO, Business Council of BC
- Jessica Kruger, injured young worker
- Renee Ozee, mother of fatally injured young worker

Date: Thursday, April 28, 2011

Time: 10:30 a.m. (Olympic Cauldron to be lit at 10:00 a.m.)

Location: Vancouver Convention Centre
Jack Poole Plaza
1055 Canada Place
Vancouver, B.C.
On the waterfront, behind the Olympic Cauldron

Parking: Available at the Vancouver Convention Centre, Fairmont Pacific Rim, or Pan Pacific Hotel

*Remember those who have been seriously injured on the job by attending a ceremony in your community.
For more information, visit WorkSafeBC.com, or to make a dedication to a fallen worker, visit www.dayofmourning.bc.ca*

WORKING TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

