Good Afternoon

I am the owner of a construction company and have 5 employees on staff. With your new proposed regulation requiring me to report on any new or young employee would cost me time and money. I am already a Star Cor member and submit a yearly audit on my business already. I feel that putting more paperwork on the shoulders of business owners is not right. I would rather see more on site inspections than be required to do more paperwork. Within the construction industry there is a large turnover in staff all the time so I can see this being an endless cycle of written documentation and record keeping.

Thanks for your time
